

ACADEMIC INFECTIOUS DISEASES SPECIALIST WITH A FOCUS ON RENAL TRANSPLANT POPULATION

The Department of Medicine, Faculty of Health Sciences at McMaster University and St. Joseph's Healthcare Hamilton invite applicants for an Academic Physician with expertise in solid organ transplant interested in building an academic career around infectious diseases in renal transplant recipients. A special interest in Quality Improvement would be an asset. This is a full-time faculty position for a period of three years (renewable). Academic rank will be commensurate with the candidate's qualifications and experience.

Applicants will have completed specialty training in Internal Medicine and further fellowship training in Infectious Diseases. A fellowship or experience in solid organ transplant infectious diseases is required. A diploma or postgraduate degree in quality improvement would be an additional asset.

The successful candidate will provide clinical infectious diseases in-patient services at St. Joseph's Hospital, Hamilton, and will contribute to the outpatient service in the city. The individual will be reporting to the Division Director of Infectious Diseases.

The successful candidate will be a full-time member of the Division of Infectious Diseases and be expected to contribute to the academic mission of the Faculty and Division. Depending on the successful candidate's qualifications, either a Research Educator or Clinician Educator stream to promotion and tenure can be considered. The successful candidate should have a proven track record in undergraduate and/or postgraduate education and will be expected to fully participate in all the appropriate departmental and divisional educational activities.

Applicants should be certified (or eligible for certification) by the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada and must be licensed (or eligible for licensure) in the Province of Ontario.

Expressions of interest should include:

- A curriculum vitae and cover letter
- A brief statement describing any contributions made or planned in relation to advancing equity, diversity and inclusion or inclusive excellence in teaching, research or service within higher education, community-based or other profession settings (2-page maximum)
- Names and contact information of three professional referees; letters of reference are not required and will not be reviewed at the application stage; letters of recommendation from referees will be requested at later stages of the search process
